Durham German Market

Our EVENT

The Durham German Market (DGM) is a vibrant annual community event hosted by the Wildly Inclusive Learning Collective Foundation. Inspired by the traditional German Weihnachtsmärkte (Christmas markets), DGM transforms Durham Central Park into a festive outdoor wonderland filled with artisan vendors, delicious foods, live music, decorative lights, and joyful holiday cheer. More than just a market, DGM is a celebration of community spirit, inclusivity, and cultural tradition — and it directly supports our mission of creating equitable, affirming, inclusive educational space for the community.

The 2024 Durham German Market was a tremendous success, welcoming over 15,000 attendees throughout the day, with more than 90 handmade artisan vendors, 5 food trucks, and lively entertainment from The Little German Band and Dancers, the park was filled with energy, connection, and celebration. Families, friends, and community members from all backgrounds came together to experience a magical holiday event unlike anything else in the area.

The impact of last year's event was powerful. We raised critical funds to support scholarships for inclusive education and expand access to self-directed learning at Wildly Inclusive Learning Collective. Local small businesses and artisans were able to showcase and sell their handmade goods, helping to boost the local creative economy. The market created a welcoming, family-friendly space where people of all ages and identities could gather, celebrate, and feel a true sense of belonging. In addition, the event introduced hundreds of new families to the work of Wildly Inclusive Learning Collective, strengthening our movement for educational equity and community inclusion.

The Durham German Market is more than a fundraiser — it is a cornerstone event that fosters creativity, connection, and community pride. We are excited to continue growing DGM as a beloved tradition in Durham, making a lasting impact year after year.

Our Statement of NEED

There is a critical and growing need for inclusive, LGBTQ+ affirming training for educators and community members; training that also fully centers the experiences of neurodivergent and BIPOC youth. This is especially true in today's political climate. Traditional educational systems are often built around rigid structures that fail to reflect the diverse identities, abilities, and cultural backgrounds of the students they serve. As a result, many learners, especially those who are LGBTQ+, BIPOC, and neurodivergent—face environments that are not only unsupportive but actively harmful.

The Wildly Inclusive Learning Collective (WILC), exists to address these systemic gaps. Our work is rooted in the belief that all children deserve safe, affirming, and inclusive learning spaces where they are seen, heard, and valued for who they are. We offer professional development, community education, and custom trainings for educators, youth-serving professionals, and caregivers, with a focus on LGBTQ+ inclusion, anti-racism, and neurodiversity-affirming practices.

Our training equips adults with the tools to dismantle bias, understand intersectional identities, and create trauma-informed environments where every learner can thrive. We don't just teach theory, we build capacity for real, transformative change in classrooms and communities.

This work is urgent and necessary. Without access to affirming environments, LGBTQ+, BIPOC, and neurodivergent youth face higher rates of mental health challenges, educational exclusion, and identity-based discrimination. By educating and empowering the adults who shape learning and care spaces, we are protecting the rights, safety, and potential of every child.

Our FOUNDATION

Wildly Inclusive Learning Collective (WILC) Foundation is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization, founded and located in Durham, NC, dedicated to transforming education through inclusivity, equity, and empowerment. WILC believes that every learner, regardless of age, ability, identity, or neurotype, deserves access to safe, affirming educational environments that recognize and nurture their unique potential.

The foundation provides critical programs that address systemic gaps in education, focusing on marginalized and underserved populations, including neurodivergent, LGBTQ+, and BIPOC learners. Through a combination of professional development workshops, personalized educational resources, family coaching, grants, and scholarships, WILC empowers educators, families, and communities to create inclusive, trauma-informed learning spaces where learners can thrive socially, emotionally, and academically.

We are actively supporting families through individualized IEP coaching and are diligently building our Community Partners Program. Once complete, the Community Partners Program will allow us to vet and recommend local businesses, therapists, and service providers who align with our value, ensuring they are safe, affirming, and equipped to serve our diverse community.

At its core, the WILC Foundation is a movement toward educational justice, ensuring that learners historically marginalized in traditional settings are not just included, but celebrated, empowered, and equipped to succeed. Through collaboration, innovation, and unwavering commitment to equity, WILC is building a future where every learner has the opportunity to discover their passions, develop their skills, and live a fulfilling life.

Our ALC

Wildly Inclusive Agile Learning Center (ALC) is a nonprofit, youth rights & self directed education accredited program, built on the foundation of inclusivity, autonomy, and community for learners 5 to 18. We are dedicated to creating a safe, affirming, and supportive learning environment for learners of all abilities, and neurotypes—particularly those who are often marginalized in traditional educational settings, including Neurodivergent, LGBTQ+, and BIPOC youth.

WI ALC takes our Foundation ideals of safe, supportive, education and inclusivity and brings them to life. We believe that learning thrives when rooted in freedom, respect, and authenticity, and our program is designed to reflect those values in every aspect of the experience.

Our program operates through the principles of self-directed education, recognizing that learners are naturally curious, capable, and driven to learn when given the freedom to pursue their interests. Rather than a traditional classroom structure, we offer a flexible and responsive environment where learners choose how they spend their time each day, supported by educated, caring facilitators who guide, mentor, and nurture their passions without imposing rigid curricula.

Serving a population that is 95% neurodivergent and 45% LGBTQ+, the co-op offers a safe and empowering space where students can explore their interests, develop their strengths, and build critical skills in an environment tailored to their unique needs. Facilitators collaborate with Learners to scaffold their learning, encourage autonomy, and foster a sense of belonging.
